Phuket, Thailand

Phuket, an island in the Indian Ocean, 867 kms from Bangkok, is the only island in Thailand to have provincial status. Known as the Pearl of the Andaman Sea, it derived much of its glory and its enormous wealth from tin production, which dates back over 500 years.

Now one of the world's top tourist destinations, the island has a picturesque and varied coastline, enchanting beaches, forested hills, tropical rainforest, rice paddies and plantations of rubber. There are an additional 39 smaller islands surrounding the main island of Phuket.

Club Med

The Resort

Located on the edge of Kata Bay, along a mile of beach, the Club Med resort stretches its length under the palm trees across 25 hectares, with traditional Thai style bungalows, the resort creates a Zen ambience in this idyllic garden. A range of sports and leisure activities inclusive of a 9-hole Pitch'n'Putt golf course.

The Beach

1200 metres of white sandy beach, Kata Bay is a public beach but with a Club Med section equipped with deckchairs and parasols, offering beach volleyball & beach soccer. For the more adventurous, private tour operators offer jet ski-ing and parasailing from Kata Bay.

The Shopping

The island has a great variety of shopping, from bustling open-air village food markets, noisy night markets, street stalls and local shops to western style department stores and upmarket specialist shops. With traditional handicrafts, beautifully designed clothing, jewellery, antiques, housewares and much more to choose from, the only thing you'll regret about shopping in Phuket is that you didn't bring a bigger suitcase!
